STRANGE LIGHT

Press from latest full length CD "New Me"

UPPSALA NEWS: Eva Hillered releases her eighth solo album "New Me". A strong album in the broad Americana folk genre of high international standard."

ROOTSY:" Best right now – An extremely good album from first to last song."

HIFI – Highest rating: "Swedish Eva Hillered has Americanized herself so much that you would think she is from the USA. She is also getting better, tougher and safer. Excellent production—the balance between melodic and tough can be heard directly in the introductory title track with Peter Sund."

LIRA: "Ten strong songs in an appealingly good-looking production. An unusually well-produced album that is not only beautiful but also with a constant underlying glow in both the singer and her fellow musicians.

BLASKAN: "Eva Hillered makes genuine country that has the nice feeling of standing somewhere beyond and between Linda Ronstadt and Emmylou Harris. It is a nice music that walks, lurches through the terrain and allows the open fields to sing freely between forests, valleys and mountains. There are ten real songs that I now really enjoy listening to."

HIGHWAY, IRELAND: "Highly regarded in her native Sweden, Hillered's musical style ticks both the folk and country boxes with an easy listening charm, characterized best here on the title track and Rosanne Cash sounding Swede Hollow. The Curtain and Sing Him Back—the latter a co-write with Nels Andrews—are uncluttered and dreamlike with Hillered's impressive vocals perfectly paced. Equally arresting is The Hunt, a haunting tune brought to life by well-placed backing vocals and slick guitar playing by Sund."

ROCK'N'REEL, UK: "Swedish singer-songwriter Eva Hillered finds the inspiration in the Americana and Country music which forms the basis of her distinctive and high-quality songwriting. Latest studio album New Me features her own compositions, and co-writes with the cream of her songwriting compatriots, the result of which is a varied album delivered with plenty of soul and passion."
